Library Notes

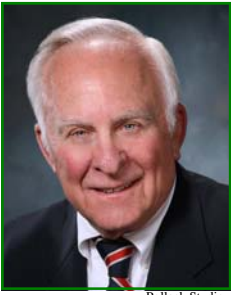

LIBRARY BOOKS TO WIDEN YOUR HORIZONS

The library has books on many topics for children and adults. Below are a few books that may interest you.

For adults:

Cleveland's Land of Promise: Rockefeller Park and the Jewish Community by Sean Martin. Most of us have driven through Rockefeller Park near University Circle and noted the designated areas with plants, fountains, statues and other features characteristic of a specific country. Few of us probably knew that the first garden to be established was the Hebrew Cultural Garden. This area was to be enjoyed by the Jewish community of Glenville back in the 1920's. Sean Martin's booklet tells an interesting story about the Jewish community's relationship to the garden over time and about the gardens themselves.

An Open Letter to the TEE Family by President, Stanley R. Levy

I want to introduce myself, to share with you some ideas about Temple Emanu El, and to invite you to engage in more active participation and involvement in Temple.

My wife, Joan, and I moved to the Cleveland area two and a half years ago. We made the move to be closer to our daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren. We are now 3 miles away, which is far more desirable than the eight-hour drive from Champaign, Illinois, where we lived for 40 years.

In 1996 I retired from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. For 16 years I served as the senior campus executive officer responsible for student life. I also served as an Adjunct Professor, now Emeritus, in the College of Education. My university activities led me into involvement with local, state, and national professional organizations. In the Jewish community, I served on the boards of B'nai Brith, the local federation, Hillel Foundation, and Sinai Temple, a Reform congregation. I was privileged to serve terms as president of the latter organizations. When combined with my formal job responsibilities, community organizations gave me extensive opportunities in organization development, management, program planning, and fund raising.

“TEE quickly became ‘The Place to Be’ for us. Its vibrancy, its unique and special history, its commitment to youth and development, and its exquisite physical plant were very attractive.”

Last year I was invited to join the Board of TEE. I brought to the table not only those experiences but also a deep commitment to the Jewish experience and congregational life. TEE quickly became ‘The Place to Be’ for us. Its vibrancy, its unique and special history, its commitment to youth and development, and its exquisite physical plant were very attractive.

I am excited about this opportunity to serve and to lead the congregation. The challenges are plenty. We have many new members; we have many long-time members; we have families of all sizes and shapes; and we have resource demands. TEE must continue to be the place where all are welcome, comfortable, and involved.

My approach is one of openness. You will read regular extracts of Board meetings. I intend to visit with you every month through TEEMail, alerting you to both our challenges and our opportunities. With the combination of a solid array of officers, a large diverse Board, and an excellent committed staff, you will see new programs and opportunities to participate in and to become engaged. A new cantor, a new education director, and a rabbi committed to this congregation and this community should encourage us to look forward, not backward. At every congregational event I will be meeting new people. I look forward to that. I invite you to share with me your thoughts, opinions, and experiences of this journey together.

Betrayal: The Life and Lies of Bernie Madoff by Andrew Kirtzman. This story about the greatest Ponzi scheme in living memory also shines a light on Madoff as a person and his relationship with the Jewish community.

The Biblical Engineer: How the Temple in Jerusalem was Built by Max Schwartz. This is a fun book to browse through if you are interested in engineering, architecture, or the history of science. It examines the Temple built by Herod around 20 BCE. The book was written by an engineer and has many diagrams and illustrations. Among the wide range of topics are ropes, handsaws, derricks and cranes, block and tackle, surveying, drainage systems, stone masonry, tunnels, and backfilling. Other chapters focus on the various sections of the Temple and how each one was constructed. There are also brief discussions of the great scientific thinkers of the time, such as Thales and Archimedes.

For middle school students:

The Remarkable Journey of Josh’s Kippah by Barbara Elissa. For Josh’s Bar Mitzvah, special kippot were made with Josh’s name and the date of the ceremony printed inside. Uncle Avi took his kippah home to Los Angeles, but at a party, the kippah blew off his head and landed on the head of Benjamin, a visitor from Australia. Thus begins the incredible travels of a kippah as it travels around the globe. This is a short book, but fun for kids who have some knowledge of distant places.

Emma’s Poem: The Voice of the Statue of Liberty by Linda Glaser. This illustrated book is a short account of Emma Lazarus and how her famous poem became engraved on the Statue of Liberty. The poem was originally part of a special collection of writings that would be sold to help pay for the pedestal of the statue. Unfortunately, Emma didn’t live to see her poem achieve fame and immortality.
