TEE'S MARISSA LOCKMAN is Heading To Israel

Local athletes, trainers prepare for Maccabiah Games

Cleveland Jewish News, Steve Mark

It took a pandemic to get the Maccabiah Games off schedule, then a war to potentially threaten the Games again, but it appears the every-four-year Jewish Olympiad is back on track, and a delegation from Cleveland appears ready for the July 8 to July 22 Games in Israel.

Cleveland will be represented on the U.S. team, including participants in girls' soccer, girls' basketball and men's masters ice hockey.

Marissa Lockman, a 15-year-old freshman on the Solon High School soccer team, said she can't wait for the trip.

"This is very cool to me that I actually made the U.S. team, especially out of all the people who tried out for the team," Marissa told the Cleveland Jewish News. "The moment is like, 'I really felt like I did something special.'"

For Marissa, this is a long-awaited first trip to Israel that had been previously postponed.

"I was planning on the possibility of going to Israel through BBYO or Birthright," she said. "We were supposed to go last year, but we couldn't because of the war."

Accompanying Marissa will be her parents and two sisters. Her father, David Lockman, gave serious thought to making an attempt to join his daughter as an athlete.

"I'm so happy my daughter qualified for the trip," said Lockman, who was toying with the idea of trying to qualify himself as a triathlete, but is training for a half Ironman competition in September. "I don't want to mess up my training in the desert heat."

Lockman said he feels comfortable about the travel to Israel in the midst of the war.

"This is a good marker in time that things are at the point when we can live our lives," he said.

All of those planning to make the trip to Israel know the delicate nature in the region, but have faith all will play out at the Games without incident.

With international recognition, and some political policies now supporting the environment, Earth Day has come a long way since its humble roots.

- Earth Day is celebrated on April 22nd every year.
- It was founded by U.S. Senator Gaylord Nelson. He was inspired to organize a national day of environmental education and activism after the 1969 oil spill in Santa Barbara, California.
- The first Earth Day celebration was in 1970.
- This date was chosen specifically so students could participate in Earth Day rallies and activities, since it wouldn't intrude on spring break or final exams.
- The purpose of Earth Day is to raise awareness of the harm of environmental damage and how to protect the Earth's natural resources.
- The first Earth Day led to the passage of significant environmental legislation in the United States, including the Clean Air Act, Clean Water Act, and the establishment of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).
- Earth Day became a global event in 1990, which gave a big boost to recycling efforts worldwide.
- Each year, Earth Day has a specific theme or focus chosen by the Earth Day Network to highlight pressing environmental issues and encourage action. Themes range from climate change to biodiversity conservation and sustainable living.
- In 2009, the term International Mother Earth Day was adopted. The term "Mother Earth" was added to emphasize the idea that our planet is not just a resource to be exploited but a living system that sustains life and deserves care and respect.
- Earth Day has seen some record-breaking events, such as the planting of more than 1 million trees in Nepal in 2019 as part of a campaign, setting a Guinness World Record for the most trees planted simultaneously in a single location.

EARTHDAY.ORG is thrilled to announce that renowned artist Alexis Rockman has created the official Earth Day 2025 poster, marking our 55th anniversary.

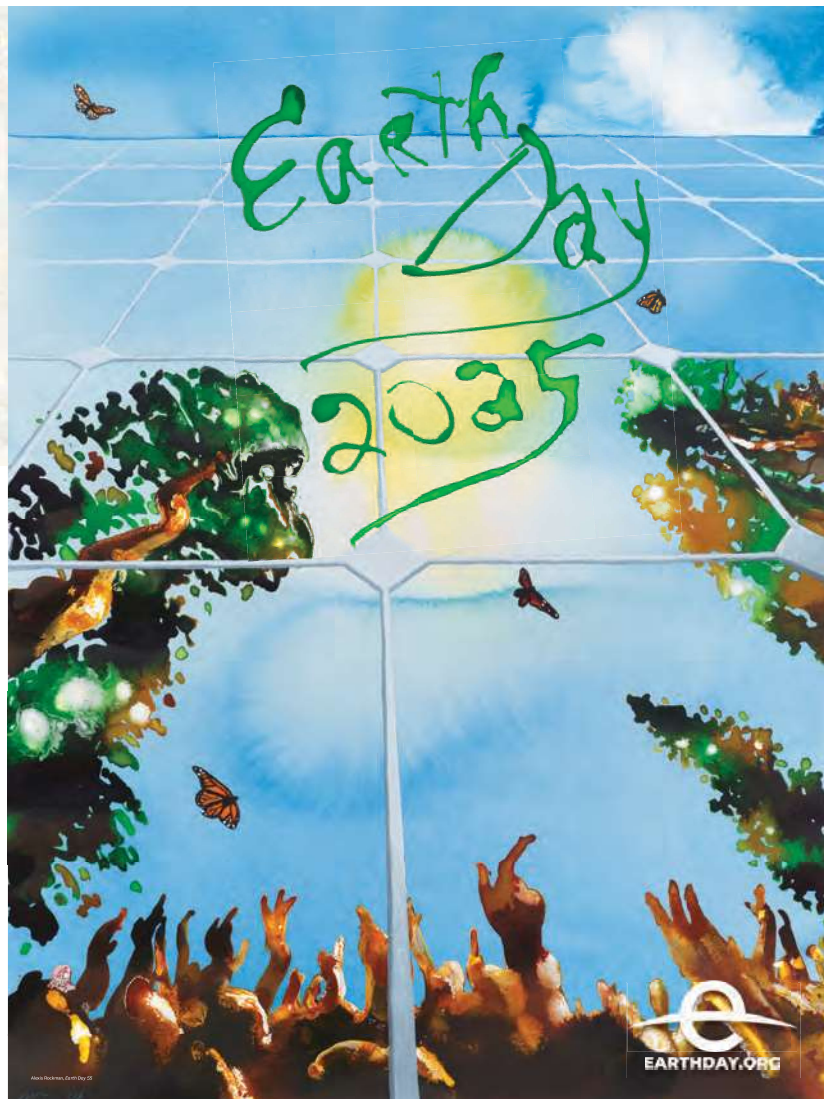

Rockman joins a distinguished roster of artists who have helped shape Earth Day's visual identity over the years, contributing their artistic vision to raise awareness for environmental causes.

"Earth Day is THE symbol of all that is great about the environmental movement that I grew up inspired by! Since I saw the first Earth Day poster by Robert Rauschenberg in 1970, it has always been at the top of my bucket list – doing the Earth Day 2025 poster is literally a dream come true!" ~ Alexis Rockman, Artist

This year, we are especially proud that Alexis Rockman has created a stunning Earth Day poster that ties directly into our 2025 theme: Our Power, Our Planet. Which is advocating for a tripling of global renewable energy generation by 2030 — by creating electricity through solar, wind, hydro, tidal, and geothermal.

Rockman's artwork beautifully features a solar panel surrounded by lush nature and a clear sky, symbolizing the renewable energy future we must embrace to safeguard both planetary and human health. His work continues his legacy of blending artistic expression with a deep understanding of environmental science, urging us all to take immediate action for a sustainable future.

"Humans are an almost entirely visual species and art can and should convey complex and highly emotional images that go directly to our hearts. After listening carefully to the Earth Day team, I felt this image of a forest and a diverse crowd of people reflected in a solar panel, conveyed the idea of solar power being the best direction collectively for our needs with the least impact on the rest of the planet. There is still time to make a difference." ~ Alexis Rockman, Artist

FUND-A-NEED AND PAYMENT

3. FUND-A-NEED

At this moment of US & global history, we know that supporting, educating, and mentoring our youth in their Judaism is crucial. It is our turn to continue the work of NEVER AGAIN. Your support will make a difference.

While Temple membership and religious school enrollment in Cleveland and in the nation decline, Temple Emanu El in Orange Village is growing. Under the dynamic and compassionate leadership of Rabbi Matt Cohen, our Reform congregation welcomes all.

TEE is seeking $25,000 in programming support for future Grades 9-12 trips, as well as a family trip to the South, exploring the history and work for civil rights. Giving our youth and adults the opportunity to engage in lessons of civics, civil rights, Holocaust, Israel and African American history with the support of Rabbi Matt, teachers, synagogue friends, and families is irreplaceable in aiding them to further develop their sense of connection, confidence, loyalty, and passion for what being Jewish means in the real world.

Aligning our programming goals with our Jewish values and vision, we endeavor to focus on providing the next generation of Jewish youth the knowledge and hands-on learning experiences to build Jewish pride and a strong connection to our history.
